VOL. 14. NO. 311.

WILL BINFORD GIRL TELL ALL SHE KNOWS AT BEATTIE TRIAL?

If so Number of Prominent Young Men Will be Implicated in Case, it is Reported—Proud Old Town Beginning to Tremble Over Outcome.

Special to Telegram.

Richmond, Va., July 29.—An unprecedented crop of cranks has been developed throughout the country from the Beattie murder case, according to letters which are pouring into the Richmond jail addressed to Henry Clay Beattie, charged with the murder of his wife.

The unique one was today made public by Attorney Harry Smith, counsel for Henry Beattie. It was from a farmer who offered to go to the electric chair for the crime in consideration of $5,000. The writer said he was a victim of tuberculosis and his family needed the $5,000 more than he did.

This proud old town is beginning to tremble over the Beattie case. Its consequences, socially, at least, have gone far beyond the imprisonment of Henry Clay Beattie, the gay young son of a rich old man. Other young men are now involved.

A new situation arises, which became known today, that Beulah Binford, the pretty little girl for the love of whom Beattie is said to have killed his wife, will have to depend on proving her own guiltlessness of the shooting upon an alibi and the alibi is this: She was motor riding at the very moment of the slaying, with a young man about to be married to a girl of a family which ranks higher than either the Beatties or the Owens. Will Beulah Binford, the victim of an early misplaced love, keep quiet and shield the unnamed man whose exposure would bring still others into the case, or will she save her own self tell everything she knows and let them all go to discredit. Until the trial the State will call her as a witness to show a motive for the crime. Once identified with his life she may enter a confession of having herself killed Beattie's wife. It is semi-officially announced that Henry M. Smith and Hill Carter, attorneys for Beattie, will ask for a change of venue to another county, so general is the belief in Chesterfield county that their client is guilty that it is said they do not believe an impartial jury can be obtained. It is generally believed that insanity will enter into the plea of the defense but the State will strongly combat this. Beattie stoutly maintains that his wife was shot by a highway man and his conversation regarding the tragedy seems perfectly rational.

REVOLUTION IN MEXICO IS TAKING AN ALARMING TURN

Mexicans Threaten to Destroy Railroads Unless Americans are Fired.

Special to Telegram.

Mexico City, July 29.—The counter revolution against Francisco Madero and the La Barra government is spreading rapidly and is taking an alarming turn against Americans in Mexico. Representatives of the 30,000 Mexican railroad employees have forwarded a petition to the officials of the railways, demanding that American employees be discharged. The Mexicans threaten to fire every railroad unless this is done. The revolution is having much influence. At an island on the western coast 1,700 convicts revolted their ring leaders, declaring that they sought freedom to join the insurgents. A battle was fought between soldiers and convicts, in which 50 convicts were killed. At Salpetec three persons were killed in a break between the Maderistas and a mob, according to reports received here today.

AN AUTOMATIC REDUCTION TARIFF BILL IS URGED

Senator Newland Thinks His Measure Would End All Tariff Troubles.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 29.—Commenting on the waste of time on the part of Congress in revising the tariff schedule Senator Newlands, of Nevada, urged on the Senate his amendment to the free list bill for an automatic reduction of prohibitory duties, which would gradually bring them to a revenue basis. His contention was that a provision should be put into the law, providing that when the importation of any dutiable article had been less than one tenth of the domestic production the tariff be reduced at the rate of 10 per cent. until the importation shall equal one tenth of the domestic production. The reduction will then cease and the matter referred to Congress for further action.

"Such an amendment would not be a recognition of the principle of protection by the Democrats if they concurred in it. It would simply be a recognition of protection and provide for a gradual reduction to a revenue basis without economic readjustment."

Our industries, he said, are on stilts as a result of a high tariff. It is not wise at one blow to knock the stilts from under them just as it was not wise for a man to jump from the top of a high steeple instead of climbing down. An automatic reduction of 10 per cent per annum would accomplish everything desired in the way of providing a revenue tariff.

DETECTIVES CHARGED WITH MISUSING THE U. S. MAILED

Special to Telegram.

Erie, Pa., July 29.—George B. Perkins, head of the Perkins Detective Agency, and Charles H. Franklin, manager of the Philadelphia branch, were today found guilty of misusing the United States mails. They were arrested some weeks ago, charged with sending threatening letters through the mails to the family of Charles H. Strong, the local millionaire, whose tomb was despoiled by ghouls last winter. The defendants, whose detectives were originally hired to run down the robbers and were later discharged by advice of Mr. Strong, sent a letter demanding payment of money. The defendants deny the allegations and allege that their arrest was due to a conspiracy on the part of the plaintiff's detectives, because they had been hired by labor men on the part of J. J. McNamara.

REVOLUTIONISTS ARE OUTSIDE PORT AU PRINCE.

Special to Telegram.

Port Au Prince, Haiti, July 29.—The revolutionists are stationed in the outskirts of the city, but have not begun a concentrated attack. A dangerous fire occurred in the city today, which is believed to have been the work of fire bugs. The rebels at Aux Cayes were defeated and their leader captured by the followers of President Simon and it is expected that they will put up a desperate resistance when the town is attacked.

FLOUR MILL IN MINNESOTA IS BURNED

Special to Telegram.

Winona, Minn., July 29.—The Bay State Milling Company, the biggest flour mill in the United States, is in ruins today with the exception of one elevator as a result of a fire. Flour dust explosion caused the flames to spread in all directions. The loss is estimated at between $300,000 and $500,000.

PUTS BAN ON MADSTONE.

Health Department of Kansas Will Not Permit Its Use.

Topeka, Kan., July 29.—At the request of Dr. J. C. Crumrine, secretary of the State Board of Health, Attorney General Dawson last night ordered the arrest of the owner of a madstone in Hutchinson if he attempted to use it in an effort to cure a boy who was bitten by a dog in Winfield a few days ago, and who was being taken to Hutchinson to have the stone applied.

The attorney general also instructed the county authorities to find the boy and have him sent to the State University Hospital, at Rosedale, where the Pasteur treatment will be administered. The action of the attorney general was the result of the complaint of several persons in Winfield that persons who had recently been bitten by a mad dog had been taken to Hutchinson for the madstone treatment.

THE WOOL BILL HAS CAUSED STIR IN THE SENATE

Regulars Will Not Serve on Conference Committee—Democratic Leaders are of Opinion That Taft Will Approve Measure if Presented Him.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 29.—An interesting spectacle likely to be presented is that of the regular Republican organization in the Senate absolutely refusing the privilege and turning over to LaFollette and the Democrats entire control of the conference committee on the wool bill. It was stated today upon authority that this is likely to be the program of the regulars.

It will be an unprecedented political action, but it is said to be warranted by the circumstances of the present remarkable situation in the United States Senate. The Senate conference committee on the wool bill will probably be composed of two Democrats and Senator LaFollette, representing the progressive Republicans. According to this provision no regular Republicans will be upon the committee.

Democratic leaders in Congress are wondering whether the President will sign or veto the wool bill. Despite his determination to veto the bill, accredited the President, by those who have conferred with him, Democratic leaders today expressed the opinion that he would approve the measure. Speaker Clark is one of those who believe the President will sign the bill, despite all efforts to the contrary.

It became clear today that the House will not be in a hurry to ask for a compromise on the wool bill. The Senate wool bill, when it is taken up in the House next week, will be promptly rejected and sent back to the Senate. It will then be up to that body to ask for a conference committee. Many Democrats are urging conciliation and compromise with the idea of forcing Taft to pass upon a wool tariff bill at once.

CONDITION OF POPE PIUS IS SERIOUS

Special to Telegram.

MEN

Who Received Money for Voting for Lorimer to Testify Before Committee.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 29.—Laurence C. Stringer, the Democratic candidate in opposition to Williams Lorimer at the time the latter was elected by the Springfield legislature testified before the Senate Lorimer committee today. The witness testified that Lorimer and Speaker Sulliff were the republicans who were most popular with the Democrats in that section. From the time it was first rumored that Lorimer would become a candidate, the rumors were that Lorimer would get Democratic votes if he went into the race. Senator Kern led the witness to break down much of the favorable testimony brought out by Judge Henacy. Important developments are to be expected at the hearings to be held during the coming week. The men who have confessed to having received money for voting for Lorimer will testify before the committee.

BANK HOLD-UP BOGUS.

Cashier and His Two Confederates Get Prison Sentences.

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 29.—The finish of a sensational bank-robbing conspiracy came yesterday in the district court at Toole, when pleas of guilty were entered by S. I. Shafer, George H. Higgs and A. B. Walton to a charge of embezzlement, and each received a sentence of a year in State's prison.

June 7 Shafer, cashier of the Toole Commercial bank, was found lying with in the bank bound and gagged. He told a story of having been attacked by a "tall and short man," and a check-up of the bank's funds showed that close to $10,000 had been taken.

Statements wrung from Shafer led to the arrest of Higgs, who succeeded Shafer as cashier, and Walton, a Salt Lake business man. Confessions were made by the men that they had planned the hold-up scheme.

The purpose is the construction of the section of the great central highway that is to traverse the length of the state from Morehead to the Tennessee line. And the company just chartered is to build the road from Morehead to the Craven county line. This is the first corporation that has been chartered in connection with the construction of this highway, but it is expected that others will follow for localities that consider this means preferable to the slower way of procuring the road by taxation and volunteer funds and work. PREACHER CHARGED WITH DEFRAUDING DANVILLE PEOPLE

Danville, Va., July 29.—Rev. D. P. Tate, who was formerly engaged in the insurance, rental and real estate business here, and at one time was a member of the Western North Carolina Methodist Conference, was arrested today in Knoxville, Tenn., on charges of fraud.

He is being held pending the arrival of an officer from this city, where he is wanted on various charges for fraudulent transactions. After getting deeply in debt, passing many worthless checks, and it is alleged, defrauding numerous people, Tate suddenly left Danville, about two months ago. It was not until after his departure that a number of people awoke to the fact that they had been swindled and made complaint to the police authorities. Tate came here in 1909, and the fact that he had been a Methodist minister gave him a standing in the community that he would not otherwise have secured. He was very active in church work, and secured money from quite a number of his religious associates.

General Leinster Back in Office.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, July 29.—Adjutant General Leinster returned today from Statesville where he was called on account of the death of his father Wednesday. Wilson the most popular candidate for Brake Rod Broken, Driver Not to Blame.

Winston, July 29.—William Blackwell, colored, was given a hearing yesterday afternoon before Trial Justice R. A.
Jenkins of Salem on a charge of recklessly driving an automobile down the hill at Salem Creek about a week ago, and the warrant against him was dis-

Blackwell is chauffeur for S. L. Gilmer

the hill at Salem Creek with Mr. and Mrs. Gilmer and Miss Nelson in the machine he ran into James Pickard's buggy, on the bridge near the end, knocked his horse off the abutment and practically demolished the buggy.

G. C. Thomas, who examined the car after the accident, testified that the rod on the emergency brake was broken and that the car could not have been stopped with the regular brake in some distance. Mr. Gilmer said that the chauffeur was trying his best to stop the

THE TELEGRAM WILL BE PUBLISHED AS AN AFTERNOON NEWSPAPER

As announced on the first page of The Telegram this morning, beginning tomorrow, August 31st, this paper will be issued as an afternoon paper, every day in the week except Sunday. With reference to the change we wish to say:

It was the intention of the present owner and Mr. H. G. Braxton, when we purchased The Telegram several months ago, to change it to an afternoon newspaper. This step would probably have been taken prior to this time but for the fact that Mr. Braxton decided to retire from the business, and this delayed action in regard to the change. It was not our intention in the beginning, however, to take this step hastily; as we desired to become somewhat acquainted with the field and the people before making the change. The matter of Mr. Braxton's retirement having been closed up, the way is open for the change and it will be made as stated.

In regard to the motives prompting the owner of The Telegram in converting this paper into an afternoon journal after its successful career in the morning field for several years, I wish to say this:

My personal preference is for work in the afternoon newspaper field. The greater part of my newspaper experience has been acquired in publishing afternoon papers, and I know the afternoon field to be more pleasant as to labor, more profitable for the newspaper and for its advertising patrons, than the morning newspaper field.

The majority of newspaper readers prefer the afternoon paper. The result is that, as a rule, the afternoon papers have much greater circulation than the morning papers; and having the circulation, they secure a larger volume of advertising, and the advertising brings much better results for the money expended than if invested in space in the morning papers.

There is absolutely no question about the fact that afternoon papers secure better results for advertisers, in proportion to circulation, than morning papers.

The fact that afternoon papers lead in circulation in a majority of the cities of the country is, likewise, well established.

The net results of these facts, in so far as they apply to Greensboro and The Telegram is that:

In the afternoon field, we can give our readers a better paper for their money than in the morning field; and we think it certain that when they have become accustomed to the change, they will greatly prefer the afternoon paper.

In the afternoon field, we can give the advertisers of Greensboro and elsewhere better service than in the morning field, because of the superior pulling power or result getting power of the afternoon paper. The fact that the afternoon paper is more popular than the morning paper will, also, enable us to largely increase The Telegram's circulation. This fact will add largely to the paper's value as an advertising medium.

We propose to give the people of this city and county a live, readable, progressive newspaper. There will be no change in The Telegram's policy as it has been outlined heretofore. It will continue to be an independent Democratic newspaper; having a well defined policy and the courage of its convictions; publishing the news with fairness to individuals and all classes of people; and dealing on the square with all, in every department of the business and in its editorial columns.

car and could not get it under control because of the broken rod.

Mr. Gilmer agreed to pay for all the damage that he had done to Mr. Pickard's horse and buggy, and that part of it will probably be settled without suit.

Mr. Gilmer was represented by Attorney Robert King of Greensboro, while Attorney J. Irving Fulton conducted the prosecution.—Winston-Salem Journal.

Fine Body of Men.

The State meeting of the Farmers' Union, which adjourned here last night, was composed of as fine body of men as ever assembled in Salisbury. In mixing with the men the Post found they were generally well informed on the subjects of the day, politically and commercially, as any other class of citizens, and were far in advance in information relating to the farm. A look into their faces indicated that they were many men. A feature, too, which was noticeable and a matter of comment, was the good behavior of the crowd—there was not a man of them seen drinking nor were there a smell of the "fluid" detected on their person. It was a lot of staunch, horny-handed sons of toil here on business—farming business—and they gave this their attention nor bothered they any other business. They were pleased with Salisbury and Salisbury was pleased with them. Their coming was a mutual pleasure for both.

Probably the most important business done was adopting a resolution favoring the rural farm life school for North Carolina. Upon this question all were unanimously. The farmer needs education in his line of work, and it was argued that the farm life school was the salvation of the farm. The professions educate along their special lines; it is equally important and more so that the farmer boy be educated how to farm intelligently. The farm life school is the entering wedge for further and greater developments on the farm. To show the intense earnestness of the union in securing these schools it will provide a lecturer for any county desiring to call an election for that purpose. The lecturer will remain in the county for a week making speeches, showing the advantages of the schools.

It bears repeating. The adoption of the resolution approving rural farm life schools as proposed by an act of the last Legislature was the most important thing done during the State meeting.—Salisbury Post.

"Bobby have you become acquainted with the new boy next door?"
"No, not 'xactly acquainted; I've looked him two or three times, but I don't know his name yet."—Chicago Record-Herald.

"You have already, parson. I was at your church fair last night."—Smart Set.

GREAT REVIVAL AMONG RAILROAD MEN AT SPENCER

Spencer, N. C., July 29.—A meeting which has been of great value to hundreds of railroad men in Spencer is now well under way with "Railroad Jim" Smith of St. Louis, at the throttle. The meetings are being held under a large tent in Spencer Park and able sermons are being preached each day by "Railroad Jim," as he is familiarly known. He is an evangelist of exceptional ability and is giving his entire time to work among railroad men, being employed by the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association.

The meeting in Spencer is being held under the auspices of the local association which had planned carefully for a year for a vigorous religious campaign and which is now bearing gratifying results. This meeting is the last to be held by "Railroad Jim" for a long while as he has already been engaged by the Committee of Ninety-Seven for a series of addresses with the Men and Religious Movement. Mr. Smith has had wonderful success as a railroad evangelist during the past year and has traveled more than 30,000 miles in the interest of railroad men and knows how to reach them in gospel talk.

Guy S. Lane, an engineer on the Selma division of the Southern, running out of Spencer, is chairman of the Religious Work Committee and is being ably assisted by fifty or more active Christian workers.

R. F. Stevenson and Fred Broad, secretaries of the Y. M. C. A., made careful plans for the meeting and are making good in all respects.

All the churches in Spencer have united in the campaign and no other services are being held in the town during the meeting. The various pastors, Rev. R. E. Steele, of the Presbyterian church, Rev. R. D. Sherrill of the Methodist, and Rev. J. L. Viperman of the Baptist, are doing all in their power for the success of the meeting.

The singing which has been made a special feature, is being conducted by Prof. Junius H. Smith of Durham.

ELEVEN LIVES LOST.

Only One Man Survives Loss of Coal-Laden Steamer.

Halifax, July 29.—Eleven lives were lost when the coal-laden steamer John Irwin, bound from Port Myron for this port, foundered Tuesday morning during a storm off Beaver Harbor, 115 miles east of Halifax. So far as is known now there is only one survivor, William McLeod, first mate, of Halifax, who was washed ashore Wednesday afternoon. It was not until today that news of the disaster reached here.

WILMINGTON IS READY TO ENTERTAIN OLD CONFEDERATES

Special to Telegram.

Wilmington, N. C., July 29.—After weeks and months of careful preparation announcement is made that everything is now in readiness for the annual reunion of the Confederate Veterans of North Carolina which will be held in this city next Wednesday and Thursday. The reunion will bring to Wilmington at least 2,000 visitors, probably more, from every section of the State, and local veterans and others are looking forward with pleasurable interest to the great gathering. The visitors will be greeted with the true Cape Fear hospitality for which this section is known far and wide. The comfort and convenience of the visitors will be paramount with the local committee.

Final plans were arranged last night at an enthusiastic and largely attended meeting of Cape Fear Camp, U. C. V., and there is nothing to be done now but await the arrival of the veterans. The reception committee will meet all trains and there will be a bureau of information at the station in charge of Mr. L. Leon, the energetic adjutant of the local camp. Mr. Leon will direct the veterans to hotels and boarding houses and restaurants and assign to sleeping quarters and mess hall any who desire the free accommodations which have been provided for an unlimited number. The plans have been worked out in every detail and it is believed will be carried out with the utmost precision. The local committee has secured three large buildings—the building formerly occupied as a pawn shop on Market street, the three-story building recently erected by Miss Rowe Wiggins, on Market street and the old Odd Fellows' building on North third street—as sleeping quarters for the old soldiers, while the vacant store room in the Bonitz building on Market street has been secured for the mess hall, where meals will be served all veterans who desire them. There are a large number who will pay their own expenses and for these the committee has secured rates at the hotels and down town boarding houses. Nearly all the restaurants have agreed to give meals from 25 cents and up, while the hotels have given rates of $1 to $1.50.

Adjutant Leon has already received information of the attendance of 1,200 veterans and letters continue to pour from camps all over the State. It is believed there will be at least 1,500 veterans here and as some will be accompanied by members of their family there will be more than 2,000 visitors here for the reunion, it is believed.

The reunion will be the biggest event held in this city in a long time—since the Taft day celebration, to be more definite—and the people generally, especially those along the line of march, will most likely decorate their places of business and residences in honor of the occasion.

Nothing Doing in Municipal Court for Two Days.

Neither on Friday nor yesterday morning was there a session of Municipal Court, no misdemeanors having been rounded up by the police during the preceding days. With the single exception of the drunks the various classes of petty criminals that usually swell the docket of the court seem either to be averted into inaction by the vigilance of the police or at rest by their own free will, to give the officers an opportunity for much needed vacations. Chief of Police Ira B. Isley returned yesterday from a rest of ten days with relatives and friends in and about Burlington.

French Broad River at Asheville Lowest in Years.

Asheville, July 29.—As a result of the prolonged drought, which caused irreparable damage to the farmers of western North Carolina, the French Broad river was the lowest last Monday it has been for more than six years, according to the records of the local office of the bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture, resulting in partially incapacitating the W. T. Weaver Power Company's plant on the river. This condition necessitates the running of the auxiliary steam plant in the depot section in order that the service rendered the city may not be crippled.

The daily records show that in January, 1905, the water line of the French Broad river fell to one and three-tenths below zero. The nearest approach to this record was established last Monday when the record showed seven-tenths below zero.

Although the continued drought has been somewhat checked by light showers, which were of material benefit to the farmers, they were not heavy enough to materially affect the larger streams as the greater part of the water for the last several weeks was absorbed before reaching the small streams feeding the rivers. As a result of this the larger streams have been practically fed by the numerous springs in the mountains, the copious flow of which has been checked considerably of late.

THE "FUN" OF WRITING ADVERTISEMENTS

Do you like the fun of writing your ads? Fine fun, isn't it? It is fun to be in business anyhow—fun to have the landlord come for the rent—screaming fun to have to send a cheque for all those funny bills that come in regularly every month and simply irresistible fun to have to buy bread and butter for the family and plan for the future of the children. Yes, Mr. Retailer, it is fun—perhaps.

You know from bitter experience that there is nothing funny about business. You do not pay your bills from any sense of humor and neither do people give you credit from the same cause. There is little fun in paying the wages of a first-class salesman who has to assist you in making money to pay your creditors and allow you to tuck a small sum snugly away in your bank against a rainy day. It is all solemn, deadly reality. It requires all the thought and sales help of the highest grade you can get at a reasonable price to carry through the daily tragedy.

Why should you think it fun to write your ads? Do you realize that it is just as necessary to have salesmanship outside your store as it is to have it in it if you wish to be successful? And if you are anxious to increase your business to the point where it will be classed as amongst the best producers of the kind, you will find that "outside" salesmanship of the finest order is absolutely necessary.

Outside salesmanship means advertising that brings business. In this category you must put your newspaper advertising—that is to say, you put your newspaper advertising in that class if it produces results. It is this production of results that makes all the difference. Only advertising space that contains real salesmanship will get real returns. And the construction of that salesmanship makes all the difference between success and failure.

The writing of successful advertising is an art or science like photography or medicine. It cannot be used successfully by any one who has not studied it as closely as any other art or science. The man who, therefore, tries to practice it for fun is only wasting his money and time.

You would not allow an untrained clerk or amateur to come into your store and sell your finest goods to your best customers. And you would call any one else who was guilty of such foolishness, a bad merchant. Further, you would not expect a clerk whom you had engaged to sell groceries, to compound prescriptions or repair watches. It is just the same with advertising salesmanship. Unless you know the rules of the business you cannot successfully write ads that are absolutely sure to bring customers into your store and money into your cash drawer.

If you are in business for fun it is wise to write your own ads for there is nothing easier or "funnier" than to spend your money on newspapers foolishly. But if you are in business for money, it is better to get someone to write them for you who knows how to bring customers to your store and, incidentally, swell your bank account.

Just let me tell you how "easy" it is to write ads and then tell me how much fun there is in constructing ads on which the increase of your business depends and on which you have to build a great part of your future.

There are four points to every successful advertisement: First, you must get and hold the attention of the possible customer in competition with every other advertiser in the paper; Second, you have to create interest in the goods you are selling; third, you must bring settled conviction to the customer's mind that she wants the goods more than the money in her pocket or bank roll; and last, but by no means least, you must get the customer into your store to actually buy the goods. That's all there is to it. Easy, isn't it?

There are well defined rules for doing all this but those rules have to be learned. After those rules have been acquired, you must apply psychology and many other "ologies" to get the desired results, the kind of results that has built large fortunes for Wanamaker, the great department store merchant, and others. To treat this question in a spirit of fun is like a butcher trying to undertake the practice of a physician. He may know how to carve meat but he does not know how to cut out your appendix so successfully that you can live afterwards.

If you are really bent on fun, Mr. Retailer, try baseball or solitary whist, but keep away from writing advertisements that are not only wasting your time but preventing your store from getting that increased success to which it is entitled.

If you cannot readily get a local man to construct your ads, subscribe to a syndicated advertising service. There are several on the market. These services are usually supplied in series of fifty-two with fifty-two copperplate electros of the illustrations, one for each week in the year, at prices ranging from one dollar per week up. Much of the advertising in those services has been classed as equal to the best that has made success for the big city department stores and national advertisers. Some reduced facsimiles of this kind of advertising may be seen at the top of this column.

This syndicated advertising service puts within the reach of even the smallest retailer, advertisements that he could not obtain individually for many hundreds of dollars. They are constructed by men who have a country wide reputation as retail advertising experts and who are paid large salaries not only for their skill but for their experience in constructing just such advertisements as have made success for thousands of merchants in the same position as yourself.

Full particulars of what is probably the most successful of those advertising services may be obtained from the Business Manager of The Telegram.

I earnestly advise retailers to make early application for only one service can be sold in each town and if you are a live merchant you are certainly losing money every day you are without such a service.

GOT HIS HAIR BACK.

Was Perfectly Bald When He Started to Use Newbro's Herpicide.

Frederick Manuell, Maryland, Black Butte, Montana, bought a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide, April 6, '09, and began to use it for entire baldness. The hair follicles in his scalp were not dead and in 20 days he had hair all over his head. On July 2 he writes, "and today my hair is as thick and luxuriant as any ever could wish." Newbro's Herpicide works on an old principle and with a new discovery—destroys the cause and you remove the effect. Herpicide destroys the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair, and finally baldness, so that with the cause gone the effect cannot remain. Stops falling hair at once and a new growth starts. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Your Children Suffer If You Are a Drunkard

WINTER COVER CROPS

MOST IMPORTANT FACTOR IN SOUTHERN FARMING.

By C. R. HUDSON.
State Agent Farmers' Co-operative Demonstration Work.

A winter cover crop is one of the most important factors in southern farming, especially hill farming. A system of poor farming has so greatly exhausted the humus in the majority of the fields as to make it well nigh impossible to prevent their further depletion by the heavy rains of winter and early spring, which carry off much of the valuable elements left, onto the bottoms, and into the streams. Nature, always resourceful, has furnished certain plants which may be used to restore the depleted soils. These winter cover crops will hold our loose soils in place, and where sufficient growth is obtained, can be turned under to add humus to the soil. The sand hills and other loose soils can largely be prevented from leaching if heavy cover crops are turned under for a few years. This statement may be verified by taking new land where the plant roots and vegetable mold are still in it, or the same may be found in sod land where run to pasture for a series of years and brought back into cultivation. No washing occurs here even after the heaviest rains. A good cover crop will not only prevent washing and add humus to the soil, but if clovers or vetches are used there will be nitrogen collected from the air and stored in the soil during the winter, as peas and beans do in summer. The plants most suitable for cover crops are rye, vetch, crimson and bur clover. Conditions, of course, must determine which to use.

RYE.—Rye is one of the old standard winter cover crops and has been used very extensively in some sections. It has the advantage in that it is generally known, is easily planted, will grow almost at any season, will grow on the poorest soils, seed are usually cheap, and it does not require extra care in the way of inoculation as is the case with the legumes. It can be sown in the middles of corn or cotton at last cultivation, or if not convenient to sow at this time it can be done a little later in the fall. When sown early it gives a better cover for the soil and also some good grazing for the stock. Where practicable, however, as would be on the corn land, it is better to turn under stalks and other growth and plant rye on good seed bed. It is also a good plan where the soil will grow it, to mix vetch with the rye, about 1 bushel of rye to ¼ bushel of vetch, using a bushel of the mixture per acre. It is better to drill seed, especially where planted in middles of corn or cotton. It is claimed that the variety known as Abruzzes, which was imported by the Agricultural Department, is best suited to North Carolina and adjacent States. There are other good native varieties which can be had at a fair price.

OATS.—Oats may be used instead of rye in many instances, and the same general rule for preparation, planting, and after treatment, may be followed as for rye. 1½ to 2½ bushels of seed should be used per acre when planted alone; 1½ bushels and ¼ bushel of vetch when combined. Rust-proof oat seed gives the best results in nearly every part of the South. Unless the lands are fairly good, it will be necessary to fertilize the rye and oat crop to get sufficient growth for the most valuable cover crop. Stable manure applied broadcast at time of planting is good for this, or the following per acre: Acid phosphate, 150 pounds; cotton seed meal, 150 pounds, and muriate of potash, 30 pounds, thoroughly mixed and applied at time of planting.

CLOVERS AND VETCH.—Until lands become more fertile and adapted to these crops, the best satisfaction with them can be obtained only by making a good preparation and by giving some special care in seeding and inoculating the soil.

PREPARATION.—Turn a few inches deeper than it has been previously plowed. If there is no rain, after this, before time of planting, a roller should be run to firm the seed bed. Three crops can be sown in both corn and cotton middles where clean by scattering seed broadcast and running sweep or cultivator lightly to cover. Entire success, however, need not be looked for by this method of seeding, though some splendid results were reported from it last season. The corn lands can be put in fine condition by using a cut-away or disc harrow to cut stalks and turn top soil. Sow seed and cover with tooth harrow.

FERTILIZERS.—The clovers and vetch will need fertilizers to get satisfactory early growth. For this purpose stable manure stands first as it not only adds fertility but carries the bacterial inoculation so essential on soils first planted to these crops. An application at time of sowing of 300 pounds 16 per cent acid, 25 pounds muriate potash, and 75 pounds cotton seed meal or dried blood per acre will be good. The addition of the small amount of nitrogenous fertilizer will aid in giving the young plants a vigorous start. When there happens to be any acidity of the soil, air-slaked lime at the rate of 1,000 pounds per acre should be applied at time of preparation.

TIME FOR SOWING.—The best time for sowing crimson clover or bur clover is just as early in the fall as danger of summer killing of young plants is past—not later than September first. Vetch can be sown much later, though the earlier planting does better.

AMOUNT OF SEED.—About twenty pounds of crimson clover seed per acre should be used; 30 pounds bur clover in bur, or 15 pounds cleaned seed; 15 pounds vetch seed when sown with 1 bushel oats, which plan is always best if the soil is good enough to allow it, 30 pounds if sown alone. Bur clover will be found to grow better as a rule from the seed planted without hulling. The inoculating germ appears to be carried with the bur. All clover seed should be covered lightly; use roller if the soil is dry at planting time.

INOCULATION.—To get satisfactory crop of crimson clover, bur clover, or vetch the first year, the soil must be inoculated. Stable manure apparently does this in some localities, but the safest plan is to procure soil from a few inches below the surface, where the bacteria are more numerous, from a field which has already grown the crop, scattering broadcast over the newly planted area. Two or three bushels per acre will answer, while more would be better. The United States Department of Agriculture will furnish inoculating material free for any of these crops, to any who make application, full instructions as to use being sent. It is recommended that those desiring this material shall send direct to the Department for it, rather than pay fancy prices to some of the firms making extravagant claims for the same material. Application must be made on regular forms, which you can obtain from Dr. Knapp at Washington, D. C.

LOOKED LIKE A BUNCO GAME

Marketer Will Not Set Down Another Basket While Jocko Is on Job.

"How is this for a button game?" said the man who markets. "On my way home with a basket of provisions I met a man who buttonholed me with an interesting political story. While we talked I set the basket down on the doorstep of a plumber's shop that is built level with the sidewalk. In our excitement I walked on half a dozen steps. When I turned back a dog brindle bulldog that had been sunning himself on the cellar steps was standing guard over my basket. I tried to pick it up; he wouldn't let me. I couldn't even get near enough to the door to ring the bell. For about ten minutes the dog and I sparred for possession of that basket. Then the door was opened suddenly from within, a red-headed woman took up my basket with one hand, patted the dog with the other hand, said, 'Good old boy, ain't 'ims?' and shut the door."

"With the disappearance of the basket the dog ceased to regard me as an enemy and allowed me to ring the bell. The red-headed woman answered."

"That was my basket you took in," I said.

"Impossible," said she.

"Fortunately there was a street full of amused witnesses to swear that it was not impossible, but even then she wouldn't give up the basket until she had looked through the accompanying bills."

"The boy who does my marketing often sets the basket down and leaves Jocko to watch it till I get ready to come to the door," she said.

"Maybe that was the explanation of Jocko's vigilance, maybe it wasn't; anyhow, I shall not set another basket down when Jocko is on the job."

Chivalrous New Yorkers.

"New York," said an ex-Washingtonian, "has always been held up to me as a place where chivalry was largely forgotten in the race for material things, but I'm of a different opinion after what I witnessed the other night. A woman boarded a Seventh avenue car at the Pennsylvania station, carrying a baby with one arm and with the other a large suit case to which was strapped a violin and a word. A queer mixture it was. At Forty-second street when she started to get out to take the subway the conductor without saying a word stopped his car, picked up all her belongings except the baby and carried them to the sidewalk. There another man who had been on the car picked them up and carried them down the stairs and on to a train. Then at Seventy-second street, when she got out to change for an express, if a man sitting next to her didn't grab her luggage and carry it aboard the express train. I left the train before she did, but I'll be willing to bet that she got some help before she got home. And this was New York."

Even the optimist takes a day of when the rent collector calls.

Journal of Commerce Cotton Report.
New York, July 29.—Journal of Commerce says:

Arkansas—There has been a little too much rain but it has resulted in considerable improvement over last month. While the plant is small in many sections, it is strong and well fruited and cultivation and condition of fields are good. Boll weevil are present in many localities but the damage to date is slight, and barring further destruction, prospects are very encouraging. Labor is plentiful and temperatures have been normal.

Tennessee—Beneficial rains have improved conditions over last month when it was 86.5, making it the highest in eleven years as far back as records of Journal of Commerce go. The plant is large and vigorous and well fruited, while cultivation is excellent. Late planted is rather small and the outcome of this will depend upon date of killing frost.

Missouri—Generally good conditions are reported.

Boy Scouts Return From Camping Trip

A patrol of energetic Boy Scouts, lead by Scout Master W. H. Nicholson, returned yesterday from a "hike" of 150 miles through the mountains of the State. The patrol was composed of twelve boys of the local organization, William Boyst, Earl Weatherly, Fred Pearce, Allen Pearce, Charles Moore, Ryland Olive, Aleck Malloy, Lewis Schenck, Robert Cox, Clayton King, Hal Hopkins, and the son of the leader, George Nicholson. In accordance with their pronounced proclivities for such a jaunt, the patrol organized and adopted the name of the "Hound" patrol, electing William Boyst as patrol leader, and Fred Pearce, corporal.

The tourists were gone from the city on the tramp for 13 days, departing Monday morning, July 17. The party report a most enjoyable and beneficial trip, which included among the daily marches several socials tendered to them. The first night after leaving they camped on the summit of Pilot Mountain. This peak was thoroughly explored and when continuing upon their journey the boys led the beaten trail and tramped steadily in true scout fashion in the underbrush. The march then lead to Mt. Airy and the famous White Sulphur Springs of that region. Here the scouts stopped for three days and were royally entertained at a reception given in their honor by the Covenanters, an organization of boys of the Presbyterian church of that place. A potato race between the scouts and the Covenanters was also held, which resulted in victory for the Scouts when Earl Weatherly first completed the course. Sunday was spent in Pinnacle, and the march then followed with short stops at Vade Mecum, Moore's, and Piedmont Springs. The boys reached Rural Hall on Friday, and completed the tramp yesterday morning.

New Bed Needed.
"During the days of the gold fever in California," said an old sea captain, "our ship was so crowded that you could hardly get a place to sleep. 'Captain,' said a man when we were three days out, 'I have just got to have some place to sleep.'
"Where have you been sleeping?" I asked.
"I have been sleeping on a sick man," the passenger said, "but he's getting better now."—Success.

Not Serious.
Sweltering Passenger (on railroad train)—This window sticks so I can't get it up.
Conductor—Yes. Wood is swollen a little by the rain. It'll be all right in a few days.—Exchange.

JOHN CLAPP IS JAILED ON CHARGE OF BURNING BARN

Yesterday before Justice of the Peace D. H. Collins John Clapp, colored, was given a hearing on the charge of arson, being held in a bond of $500 for his appearance at the next term of Guilford criminal court. Failing to give bond he was placed in jail.

Clapp is charged with having burned the barn of D. R. Huffines, near McLeansville, several weeks ago, causing a loss of several hundred dollars. Deputy Insurance Commissioner W. A. Scott has been working on the case for several days and the arrest is the result of his efforts.

The negro was formerly employed on the farm, having been discharged some time previous to the fire. He told a tenant on the place, Henry Miller, that something terrible was going to happen shortly. After the fire, according to Miller, he said something else that caused suspicion to be fastened upon him. He denied his guilt, but the circumstantial evidence against him is quite strong.

POST WITH A HISTORY

MONUMENT TO STUDENT'S VAIN EFFORTS TO GET EDUCATION.

Russian's Here to Attempt to Work His Way Through Cornell University Told by Former Ambassador Andrew D. White.

Andrew D. White, former ambassador to Russia and Germany, points out a stone post on the university campus as a monument to a student who tried to work his way through the university soon after Ezra Cornell sent out a call for students in all parts of the world who were willing to work to obtain useful knowledge.

"I shall always think of that stone post before Sage college as Pelechin's monument," said Mr. White to a professor recently. "Pelechin had come all the way from Kiev, Russia, in response to the call to a university where poor men could work their way. It was Mr. Cornell's idea that all the students should be at least partly self-supporting."

"The Russian had little money left on his arrival and came to me to apply for work. I reported the matter to Mr. Cornell, and when a few days later Mr. Cornell bought this post from the stone cutters and had it unloaded before the south building. Pelechin got the task of putting it in position. The poor fellow was unacquainted with the use of tools and was very awkward. It was several weeks before he got a hole dug which would accommodate the post in its proper position. His strange methods of work attracted the attention of many of his fellow students, and they named it Pelechin's monument. A name by which it was known for many years afterward."

"It soon turned out that a monument was needed. Pelechin soon became not only deficient in funds, but deficient in scholarship. He made heroic struggles to master his studies without avail, and I finally succeeded in persuading him that the best thing he could do was to return to his home in Russia."

"Imagine my surprise when he turned up a few years later. He came to my office and told me he had saved $500 and proposed to complete his course. I congratulated him on his thrift and his determination to succeed, but with mental reservations. In a few days he came to my office again. He told me he had invested a large part of his capital. I asked him what investment he had made, and he told me he had purchased a horse and carriage. I was astonished, and asked why he thought a horse and carriage would be a good investment."

"Pelechin told me that there was a constant demand on the part of a considerable number of the students for a horse and carriage, and he expected to make a great deal of money by hiring them out. Poor Pelechin! He turned up again in a few days crestfallen. He had a sad story to tell. He had rented the horse and carriage to a party of students, and the animal had run away, badly injuring itself and wrecking the carriage. Soon afterward he left Cornell for good. His address in the 1908 Ten-Year Book of the university was still Kiev, Russia."

SOLUTION IS REACHED.

It Will Not Be Necessary to Create New Peers.

London, July 29.—A solution of the veto bill crisis without the creation of peers may be predicted tonight with tolerable certainty.

Premier Asquith had a final interview today with King George, who goes with Queen Mary tomorrow to Cowes for the week-end.

The "no surrender" movement is dying of ridicule, its leaders not daring to publish the names of its alleged adherents. Lord Lansdowne, leader of the opposition in the House of Lords, on the other hand, has received written pledges of support from 300 peers in his efforts to save the bill. The following is expected to be the course designed for the veto bill: The House of Commons Wednesday will reject the House of Lords' amendments and meanwhile intimation will be conveyed to Premier Asquith that Lord Halsbury will take sufficient lobby in the House of Commons to outvote him. It is believed, however, that even this procedure will not be necessary, as it is very doubtful whether Lord Halsbury's following is equal in numbers to the Liberal peers in the House of Lords.

Lightning Rod Investigation.

There has always been more or less controversy as to the efficiency of the lightning rod, but this matter is likely to be settled at no distant time beyond all question of doubt. The authorities of the University of Illinois have undertaken to do this and have been at work on the problem for some time. Last summer some valuable experiments were conducted but the results were not entirely satisfactory for the lack of suitable apparatus. During the coming summer the work will be continued on a very elaborate basis. The use of an open field has been secured for the entire season and the investigation will be continued during the entire season in which thunder storms may be reasonably expected. In this field twelve 40-foot poles have been erected. Six of these are equipped with devices for registering the effect of lightning strokes at or near the poles. There is a series of spark gaps with induction, resistance and capacity figures, so that the lightning may jump across the gaps or pass around through shunt circuits. Any action due to lightning will be recorded on a moving strip of paper driven by clockwork so that the exact time of the electrical discharge can be told from the record. Three of the poles have been equipped with sharp needle points and three with brass balls.

CANADIAN RECIPROCITY SPLITS REPUBLICANS

Big Fight will Come in Iowa When National Delegates are Selected--Issue will be Reciprocity and Not Taft.

WASHINGTON LETTER
Special to Telegram.
(By VICTOR ELLIOTT.)

Washington, July 29.—An echo of the fight over Canadian reciprocity agreement, which has been hotly waged in the Senate during the special session of Congress, and which has split the ranks of the Republican party in twain and came near disrupting it, will be heard when the Republican State Convention of Iowa meets next spring for the selection of delegates to the national convention.

The issue will be reciprocity, and not Taft. The Republican leaders of Iowa have been, are, and ever will be opposed to reciprocity. They propose to make a fight on reciprocity. Opposition to it will be the most important plank in their platform. An endeavor will be made to keep the anti-Taft question in the background. This has been agreed upon by most of the members of the Iowa delegation.

Seldom in the political history of the country has a State belonging to the party in control made such a bitter fight against a measure endorsed and supported by the administration as has Iowa against reciprocity. But a single member of the Congressional delegation, Representative Hubbard, has supported the agreement.

The bitter fight because of reciprocity is liable to cause the Republicans to lose the State of Iowa. It is predicted that their defeat in the State will be so crushing that it may take fifty years for them to recover from the effects of it. Nothing it seems can save off the impending disaster. The administration has gone too far. It cannot retreat. It has pledged itself to the measure and the loss of the State to it will be one of the results of the passage of the pact.

It is the purpose to put up to the next State convention the question of endorsing the opposition of the Iowa Republicans in Congress to the reciprocity bill. With the single exception of Representative Hubbard, the members of the House delegation voted against the measure. When the vote was taken in the Senate, Senators Cummins and Kenyon cast their votes in opposition to it.

A resolution will be introduced at the next State convention endorsing the opposition to reciprocity by the delegation. If a resolution of this character is passed the delegation now in Congress will be sustained in the stand they have taken, and if such a resolution is defeated in the convention they will be rebuked.

The responsibility of leadership will fall upon the shoulders of Senator Cummins. He is the logical man, for it was he who has so bitterly fought the measure in the Senate. All of the amendments to the agreement proposed by him were voted down, and the sting of defeat will only serve as a stimulus to him in the coming battle. His task will be to get the State convention to take a firm stand against the reciprocity measure proposed by the White House.

Sensor Cummins will have the backing of both standpat and the progressive elements of the party in the State. Opposition to Taft has become a secondary question in Iowa.

The leaders of the Iowa delegation in Congress do not propose to enter into the fight in hopes of securing an anti-Taft delegation or to make a fight upon him personally. All opposition to him is founded upon his stand in the reciprocity question. The purpose of the delegation in Congress will be to prevent itself from being rebuked, as it would be if the convention passed a resolution endorsing the stand that Taft has taken in the matter. At the same time, while trying to see to it that the State convention does not take a pro-reciprocity stand, efforts will be made to send a delegation to the national convention without instructions. A long, bitter struggle is to be looked for, and the political future of more than one politician hangs in the balance. None will be allowed to perch on the fence, watch which way the tide is going and then join the ranks of the victor. Each will have to stake his political future on the outcome before the fight is begun.

There is no question that if an unstructured delegation goes from Iowa it will be a Taft delegation, providing it is clear that he will be nominated. If, however, the chances of some strong progressive Republican for securing the nomination seems good, it is just as sure that the delegation will not be a Taft delegation. This is in accordance with the plans of Senator Cummins and his friends are now formulating.

It is almost certain that no fight will be made in the State convention to secure a La Follette delegation. Little activity in Iowa along that line is looked for by politicians familiar with conditions in the State. Twenty-six delegates will be selected, two from each of the Congressional districts and four at large. Of the delegates chosen in the district conventions, some undoubtedly will be instructed for Taft, and others will not be. It is probable that among the un-instructed there will be a number of anti-Taft men who will refuse to vote for him unless it is sure that he will be nominated.

The fight in the State convention will concern the resolutions and the attitudes of the four delegates at large toward President Taft. The opponents of Taft will seek to prevent instructions. But it will not be the purpose to make primarily a fight upon the nomination of Taft. What the Republican leaders want most is the approval of the State in the stand that they have taken in Congress in regard to reciprocity.

It is a well known fact that Senator Cummins is far more anxious for the State of Iowa to go on record as opposed to reciprocity than he is for it to declare itself against Taft. He does not care particularly for an anti-Taft delegation.

What he wants is one opposed to reciprocity. The same is true of the other progressives of the State who have no particular liking for President Taft. It is quite possible that if La Follette, Cummins or some other progressive should loom up unexpectedly strong in the convention, a large part of the delegation would undoubtedly go to that progressive.

The plans of the Republican leaders of Iowa indicate what will be attempted in Iowa before the State convention next spring. On the other hand, the friends of President Taft in the State will not be idle, or allow any such plan to be put into effect without its being challenged. They will try equally hard to get the convention to endorse Taft and reciprocity.

Each side is making plans for the struggle. It will be bitter to the end. The eyes of the whole nation will be centered upon the outcome. It will be the most notable instance of pre-convention campaigning in the political history of the country and will mark a crisis in the Republican party.

Honest Medicines Versus Fakes.
President Taft's recent message suggesting an amendment to the Pure Food and Drugs law in its relation to Prepared Medicines, does not refer to such standard medicines as Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and Foley's Kidney Pills, both of which are true medicines carefully compounded of ingredients whose medicinal qualities are recognized by the medical profession itself as the best known remedial agents for the diseases they are intended to counteract. For over three decades Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has been a standard remedy for coughs, colds and affections of the throat, chest and lungs for children and for grown persons, and it retains today its pre-eminence above all other preparations of its kind. Foley Kidney Pills are equally effective and meritorious. Howard Gardner.

Southern's Excursion to Norfolk.
It is learned from the local passenger office here that very great interest is being manifested in the Southern's annual excursion to Norfolk which leaves Greensboro Wednesday, August 2, at 7 p. m. The space in the Pullman cars allotted to Greensboro has nearly all been taken, and those desiring Pullman accommodation who have not applied for reservations should do so at once.

The ticket agents are still kept very busy answering the many inquiries and telephone calls regarding this delightful annual outing, and from present indications this will be the largest excursion ever operated out of this section.

Enthusiasm doesn't amount to much unless there is plenty of hustle back of it.

TWELVE FISHERMEN RESCUED.

Spent Five Days in Small Boats Without Food or Water.

San Francisco, Cal., July 29.—Details of the rescue of twelve fishermen of the crew of the fishing schooner Vega, off Cape Hancock, Alaska, which arrived here yesterday. The fishermen, each adrift in a small dory, battled with a terrific gale for five days without food or water.

The Vega had anchored off Cape Hancock. The boats were out when the gale arose, and the officers of the Vega were compelled to slip their cable and stand out to sea, abandoning the dories.

Five days later the dories were picked up by the revenue cutters Manning and Rush. All the fishermen were unconscious, but soon recovered when given food and water.

The boats were found within a mile of one another.

PATRIOTS FOUND COMBS EASY

Doyle's Men Found Spartanburg Pitcher and Slugged Their Way to Victory.

Spartanburg, S. C., July 29.—The Patriots landed on Combs after the third inning of the game this afternoon and batted out a victory, 8 to 3. Walters was almost invincible after the first inning. Outfielder Wagon of the locals got a three-bagger in the eighth inning with one man on. The ball hit a spot about one foot in diameter on a sign in center field and he gets a suit of clothes for his feat. The attendance at the game was discouraging.

KELLY'S LADS BATTED TO VICTORY

Special to Telegram.

Anderson, S. C., July 29.—Big Kelly's Electricians batted out a victory by bunching hits off Ridgeway in the third and seventh innings of today's game. Hayes gave more hits but he kept them well scattered. The errors of the visitors also assisted in the local runs, while the miscues of the locals counted but little. Shortstop Shilders of the locals got a home run in the seventh with the bases full.

Scout Joe Sudge of the Detroit Americans witnessed the game. It is reported that he is looking for some infielders and has his eyes particularly on Third Baseman Taylor and Catcher Brannon of the locals.

Pitcher and Outfielder J. C. Cashion of the Spinners left for Greenville last night. He leaves Greenville Sunday night for Washington where Manager McAleer has called him in. It will be remembered that he was purchased a month or so ago.

ALL-STARS DEFEATED WHITE OAK TEAM

The All-Star baseball team of the city yesterday journeyed to the White Oak ball park and there encountered the nine representatives of the village in a game which resulted in victory for the visitors by a score of 11 to 0. The White Oak nine was clearly outclassed by the brilliant Stars, and though the villagers have a strong and unusually heavy hitting nine, they were unable to connect with the curves delivered to them by Arthur Coffin, captain of the Greensboro bunch. His pitching was the one feature, walking not a batsman and causing 12 men to allow the benders to pass unmolested, unable to make a better performance than a strike-out. The Stars have met several strong teams during the summer and have made a creditable record for themselves. In the last contest they batted a total of 16 hits and with but one error, while their opponents landed on the sphere safely only four times and made six errors. The Stars line-up as follows: A. Coffin, p. capt.; Watkins, c.; W. Coffin, 2b.; Holleman, e. f.; Foust, 1st.; Preyer, 3rd.; Pugh, s. s.; Clapp, 1. f.; Ferguson, r. f.

Greenville at Charlotte.
Spartanburg at Winston.

Dr. Walters also "came back."

Hope the Musicians will play the Twins a lively tune.

Clancy tried out his entire force yesterday, Swindell excepted.

Let's take both from the Electricians.

Wish those Spartans would get all the hits out of their system while in Winston.

Hankie "came back" yesterday.

HANKIE WAS TOO MUCH FOR TWINS

Winston-Salem, July 29.—Hankie was too much for the Twins this afternoon and the Hornets walked away with the last of the series by the score of 5 to 1. Clancy used four pitchers, none of whom were in such poor form, but with the exception of Spencer who pitched the last inning, not one of them could stop the Hornets' hitting. Hankie pitched a brilliant game, keeping eight hits well scattered except in the second when the Twins scored.

The game was exceptionally well played throughout, with McMillan competing the strongest for the limelight with Hankie. The Hornets' center fielder hit safely four times out of five times up, two singles, a double and a triple. Gorman played a great game at first, Agnew made a great catch of a line drive and McMillan pulled off one of the finest catches in center that has been seen here this season.

For the Twins O'Halloran and Clancy starred with some splendid stops, two of O'Halloran's stops being particularly brilliant. Gates knocked down one hit, getting the runner with an almost impossible recovery. The game was one of the best played of the season, but Hankie kept it from being exciting. Score by innings: R. H. E.
